TELLS HIS OWN STORY

HUMBLE HERO OF FLANDERS CASE ON THE STAND.

Long Legal Fight Over the Value of the Estate of the Defendant-Question of Alimony Prominent.

After the unexpected and startling developments in the Flanders divorce case Thursday there was much interest mani-fested yesterday when C. E. Christiancy. the bright particular star of this life drama, went upon the witness stand the first thing yesterday morning in Judge Gates' division of the circuit court. The adopted son of the family, who went to prison voluntarily in his foster father's stead, and now the man who is accused by Dr. Flanders of intimacy with the woman whom he has considered a mother, he appeared in a unique position.

The personality of Christiancy is attractive in the extreme. He is a young man of perhaps 26 years of age, his features are clearcut and powerful, the firm set of his jaw and the close compression of his lips denoting a man of character, one who

His full story was brought out in the very best way by Judge Gibson and Major Warner, attorneys for the plaintiff, and it one which will be remembered long by those who heard it. There was not a trace of hesitation about the statements which were made, all of which bore the impress Christianey told of his adoption into the family and how he served the family for several years as a sort of a confidential secretary. He spoke of the time he had spent in the family circle and how he had come to love the little woman who had been everything in the world to him, and of how he had always, almost from the first, called her "mother." As he told this he was much affected, and one could see that it was only by the greatest power of repression that he was able to partially conceal his feelings.

Through adroit questioning the transaction which was the cause of the first charge against Dr. Flanders was developed. He told of how the doctor and he had organized a "transportation bureau," and spent in the family circle and how he had ganized a "transportation bureau," and through this had obtained transportation through this had obtained transportation over nearly every railroad in the United States. They were indicted for using the mails for fraudulent purposes, and he had left his home and gone to California to escape prosecution. Then he had come back and had pleaded guilty to the charge that the doctor might be saved and the woman whom he had loved as sisters might go through the world with an honored name.

Before this he narrated how during a Before this he narrated how during a winter spent in Florida he had written a number of articles for the newspapers of New York and other Northern cities, and that Dr. Flanders at that time had requested him to take his name. He did this and all of his subsquent literary work was signed with the name, "Francis L. Flanders, Jr." And when he had finished his sentence of one year in the St. Chair county jail, he had resumed his former name because he had been convicted under the name of Flanders.

He had gone to California. He was making his way. He looked like a young man who would make his way under any conditions. Mrs. Flanders had gone out there and when she had taken a cottage he went to live with her, a most natural thing for him to do, he said. She was his mother in everything but reality, and she would always be so, no matter what might happen.

she would always be so, no matter what might happen.

He would care for her to the best of his ability, and his whole life would always be at the service of one who had given him any of the virtues which he possessed.

His testimony was straightforward and carried conviction with it. When he was cross-examined, the attorneys for the defense could make little headway.

The case will hardly be finished before Monday.

Monday.

Dr. Flanders, the defendant, is reputed to be worth in the neighborhood of $200,000. to be worth in the neighborhood of $200,000. Nearly the entire day yesterday was spent in obtaining a valuation of the estate, the plaintiff making an attempt to place the figures as high as possible, and the defense endeavoring to make the estate practically worthless. Prominent real estate men of the city occupied the witness stand nearly the whole time, and their testimony in regard to the value of land and property holding in the city were extremely interesting.

The estate which belongs to Dr. Flanders is a varied one. There are lots and residences in almost every section of the city. Some of the land is worth $300 a front foot, and these are not few. Besides all this, he has a number of farm properties in Missouri. Kansas and Illinois, and there is the section of the properties in the section of the section o are hotels in several states.

They were the children of Thomas Talley and his divorced wife, who is now Mrs. Lucy A. Thorman. They were pretty little creatures and attracted great attention in the courtroom.

When Mrs. Thorman obtained a divorce from her first husband, she was given the custody of the children. Talley, however,

The Decring Harvester Company has filed suit in the federal court against the Pittsburg & Gulf road asking $15,000 damages for failure to carry out a freight agreement made early last spring. The plaintiff had sold forty-six cars of harvester machinery for delivery at Rotterdam, Holland, for the season's work, and shipped the freight to Port Arthur for shipment March 1. The company deferred any shipment until March 2 and then, it is alleged, sent only twenty-five cars and held the others until May so they reached destination too late for fulfilment of the contract.

Rev. Dr. W. P. George Rends an Entertaining Paper on the Pathetie Poet and Punster.

Those who attended the meeting of the Greenwood Club at the library building last night enjoyed an unusual treat in Rev. Dr. W. P. George's paper on "Thomas Hood—Pathetic Poet and Punster." Dr. George spoke very entertainingly of the character of Hood and of his early struggles, telling of the conference around that famous table in the office of the London Punch, upon which the editorial staff held a banquet every year, and on which each guest carved his name. "It was at this conference." said the doctor. "that Mark Lemon cast the deciding vote which won for Hood's 'Song of the Shirt' a place in the columns of Punch, after three leading papers had refused to print it. The management thought it a risky thing to do but the circulation of their paper was trebled thereby."

The latter part of the lecture consisted of readings illustrating the various phases of the great poet's genius, and at its close Dr. George was given a vote of thanks by his audience. last night enjoyed an unusual treat in Rev

Diseased Hearts Can be Cured

By Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure,

The Great Heart And Blood Tonic.

Erastus E. Goodspeed, an old resident Ticonderoga, N. Y., says: "Having suffered years with a constant pain in left side, shortness of breath and fainting spells, unable to walk fast or go up stairs without severe prostrating pain; constantly growing worse month by month in spite of medical treatment, I finally commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and am so greatly benefited that all the painful symptoms are things of the past."

Heart disease, in its early stages, yields very readily to judicious treatment by Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies. Cases of many years standing, require prolonged treatment to effect a permanent cure. Advanced organic diseases of the heart cannot always be cured, but Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure will check its progress, render the patient comparatively comfortable and prolong life many years. The symptoms of heart disease are unmistakable. Shortness of breath: palpitation: irregular or intermittent pulse; weak or hungry spells without appetite; smothering spells; cold feet and hands, indicating impaired circulation; dropsical swellings of the feet and ankles, etc., all indicate a weak or defective heart and seldom result from any other cause. If one or more of these symptoms are present, do not attribute it to other pos-sible causes. It is heart disease. Heart disease never cures itself, but constantly grows worse. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has cured thousands, it will cure you.

"Three doctors had given me up and the neighbors expected to see crape on my door at any hour. I had been bedfast for two months. Was taken suddenly with heart failure, had smothering sensations so would have to sit up in bed to catch my breath, and swelling of feet and himbs. I was growing steadily worse and had about lost all hope when my daughter came home with a bottle of Dr. Miles. New Heart Cure. The third night I slept soundly all night and from that time on my recovery was rapid and sure. I am never troubled with shortness of breath now, sleep well at night and do all of my own work, although I am past seventy years of age."
